DALLAS, OREGON, JULY 17, 1908.

The way to build up Dallas is to patronize Dallas people.

William Jennings Bryan goes on record as having said that if elected to the office of President of the United States, he will not be a candidate for re-election. Really, it seems, Mr. Report of Expenditures From July 2, Bryan might study with profit that ancient recipe for rabbit stew which begins "First catch your rabbit," and make sure of even one term before he prepares so rashly to dispose of the second.

Polk County Growers Anticipate Heavy

Prices.

The season of 1908 bids fair to be quite successful as far as the hop crop is concerned. The vines in nearly all of the yards in this vicinity that are under cultivation are well advanced and the hop growers anticipate a heavy yield.

Prices are noticeably advancing and many of the more sanguine growers prophesy 12-cent hops before the close of the season. The rise in the successful as far as the hop crop is concerned. growers prophesy 12-cent hops before the close of the season. The rise in price is partly due to the enormous reduction in the acreage of the Oregon hopyards within the past year, many of the yards being allowed to lie uncultivated and still more being entirely abandoned, plowed up and diverted to other agricultural uses.

I. F. Yoakum, one of the prominent hop growers and dealers of Polk county, recently received an offer of a contract price of 190s hops, but refused it. Mr. Yoakum is confident that the price of hops will rise yet higher this year, anticipating sales at 12 cents or even 15 cents. sorative tonic.
